Third, Free banking for all parties upon bonds bearing interest at 4 per cent. gold.

Fourth, This point (don't see it) is not quite settled

There is some division in regard to the question whether the banks shall be permitted to issue notes as notes, or whether the United States shall take charge of all circulation by the issue of greenbacks on a plan somewhat similar to the Bank of England. It is, however, understood that no greenbacks of smaller denomination than five or ten dollars shall be issued

New York News.

NEW YORK, Nov. 20.—Commodore Vanderbilt testified at length to-day in the case of the Erie Company against Vanderbilt, on the charge of having defrauded the Erie Railroad Company of five millions. The evidence was quite interesting, throwing much light on the transactions of the present year.

Senator Sumner, in a lecture at Elizabeth, New Jersey, last night, said that the Chinese question must be met. Attention was once attracted to the negro, now it is the Chinese who demand protection. Nothing can be settled which does not right this. The question can only be settled in harmony with the principles of our fathers and in conformity with right and justice. The Chinese must have equal copartnership for justice. It is the best policy and best practice.

BY ATLANTIC CABLE

LONDON, Nov. 19.—The Archbishop of Canterbury is mysteriously ill.

The Times calls attention to the new regulations of the American Government, economizing in the use of coal in the Navy. It says they deserve the attention of England, although our expenses in coal have never been so lavish as that which provoked the interference in the American Navy Department. The American Government is taking the most decisive measures to abate waste. Cruisers are restricted to an allowance of coal which must not be exceeded. This economy is not without drawbacks. The use of sails, which it requires at times, involves the expense for rigging and increased crews, but on the whole, the saving will be considerable. This example might be followed here as far as the margin of our practice funds will permit.

LONDON, Nov. 20.—In the double sculling match at New Castle to-day, between Kelly and Sabler on one side and Renford and Taylor on the other, the former won by a length. It was a very exciting and well contested race, and witnessed by a great crowd.

Recent dispatches announcing the suppression of the Dalmatian insurrection were premature.

The news has just been received that the Austrian forces captured a defile heretofore held by the insurgents, near Fort Dragoly, with a loss of only 20 men.

PARIS, Nov. 19.—The Journal (official) denies any foundation for the rumor of ministerial changes.

PARIS, Nov. 20.—The supplementary elections for members of the Corps Legislatif from Paris commenced to day and are progressing quietly. Up to this hour, 5 o'clock P. M., there has been no disturbance in any quarter of the city.

The Emperor left Compeigne this morning by train for Paris and arrived at noon.

De Lesseps has been decorated with the grand cross of the Legion of Honor.

A dispatch from Ismalia announces that the Emperor of Austria had set out on his return from Suez.

Advices from Alexandria contain intelligence that the Suez canal is successful.

The Imperial yacht Aigle, with the Empress on board, arrived at Suez without accident.

MADRID, Nov. 19.—The nomination of the Duke of Genoa to the throne received the support of 161 deputies to the Cortes

An accusation has been filed in the Supreme tribunal of justice against the Bishop of Havana. It charges that the Bishop attempted to fly to Gibraltar with $100,000, that his destination, which is ostensibly Gibraltar, was doubtful.

Symptoms have appeared of another Carlist rising. The authorities are on guard.

It is reported that the Government is considering a proposition to establish a penal colony on the Spanish islands in the Pacific. The journals advocate the measure on the ground that the completion of the Pacific railroad will facilitate commercial relations between Spain and her Pacific possessions whose resources may be developed by colonization.

The Constitution for the island of Porto Rico has been submitted to the Cortes. It declares that Porto Rico is a Province of Spain, permits public meetings in the presence of the authorities or their representatives, but prohibits the discussion of the question of slavery. Many improvements and reforms are granted.

Bonicel, one of the deputies who signed the recent opposition manifesto, has written a letter explaining that document. He says it is but a minimum programme of the policy of the party whose labors will not cease until upon the ruins of the present Government they shall establish a Republic.

Rumors of impending trouble between the Sultan and the Khedive of Egypt are strengthened by the operations of the Turkish and Egyptian agents here. The Turkish agent recently received orders to make heavy purchases of rifles and ships as early as possible. The Egyptian agent is hurrying up a contract already made for a hundred thousand rifles. Both agents are in frequent communication with their Government. Heavier orders for arms are expected. It is rumored that the Turkish agent has been in conference with the Spanish Consul for the purchase of thirty Spanish gunboats, just completed.

MADRID, Nov. 20.—In the Cortes, yesterday Admiral Topete presiding, the members of the Republican minority presented a protest declaring that there is no truth in the report that they were implicated in a conspiracy with the insurgents of Cuba. Additional reinforcements of volunteers for the Cuban service left during the latter part of last week for Havana.

LIVERPOOL, Nov. 20.—The gales still continue around the coast and shipwrecks are numerous. The Heden, from Havana for Liverpool, went ashore on the bar at the mouth of the Mersey and was abandoned. No lives were lost. The Pilgrim, from Quebec to Liverpool, was abandoned at sea. No date. The crew were saved.

ST. PETERSBURG, Nov. 20.—The Pope has written to the Grand Duchess, Olga, asking her to intercede with the Czar in behalf of the Catholics in Russia.

Grant with the Veil Off.

[Washington Cor. [illegible] N. Y. Herald.]

People who have visited the capital frequently within the last few years note a very marked alteration in Grant now. He is no longer that horrible Sphinx who gave [illegible] all comers. That mysterious mask or veil behind which he concealed so successfully his thoughts has been removed. Grant of to-day is as little like Grant of nine or ten months ago as if he had been transformed into an entirely different person. With all but his most intimate acquaintances he was then cold, silent and impenetrable. Nobody could make head or tail out of him. He might [illegible] copper-bottomed for aught any member of the Republican party could tell, not even excepting the prominent leaders thereof. He was a puzzle, aye, even a terror to the very ones who had done most aside from his own superlative genius—to elevate and honor him, he was voted to be a social iceberg, and gave the chills and fever not only to inquisitive politicians who sought to pump and use him, but likewise to people who only [illegible] to pay visits of congratulation and friendship. Now how changed! Seated in his Presidential chair, he is approachable in the highest degree. He deals no longer in those horrible monosyllables. He talks now, and talks not only pleasantly but well. His [illegible] reticence had led many to believe that his silence could have only one explanation—inability to talk sensibly. Let some of those people who, nine or ten months ago, ran away from Grant's headquarters, disgusted and swearing, only revisit him now. They will find how easy it is to be mistaken. They will find Grant talkative, affable, and within the proper official limits, communicative.

It is a very natural thing to ask an explanation of this change, and it is not very difficult to give it. Grant was then only the soldier. He had been chosen, it is true, to be the magistrate of the republic. But he was unversed in politics; knew nothing of statecraft, knew little of the civil machinery of the government. Like a prudent man about to enter upon a new field of duty, he went to study. He adopted the same plan in this respect as a prudent general. He knew not the strange ground upon which he was about to operate. He was unacquainted with political tactics, and, until he had posted himself, resolved to remain noncommittal. Hence that impenetrable mask which bothered alike friends and foes. But now he has studied and brushed against all the shrewd political celebrities of the country and feels his own strength. He is assured as to the proper tactics to adopt, and is unhesitating in expressing his views as before he was timid and reserved. The change is very pleasant to all who have any thing to do with him. He receives his scores of visitors, male and female, every day with as much ease and affability as the most accomplished of his predecessors in the Presidential chair.

Heavy Work

Owing to the lateness of the season and the consequent short days, heavy rains, deep mud and high water, the construction of the railroad on the east side of Wallamet river is proceeding under many disadvantages. But it is compensated for by the work is being prosecuted with admirable pluck. There is no stopping to consider the chances of failure. By the close of the present week the track will be laid for more than half the distance which it is designed to complete. In many places the mud is of almost foundering depth, but the men struggle through it resolutely and build the road. The work is not all well to stop by night or day, no matter what the nature of the weather. The loss of the Clackamas bridge is a serious blow to the progress of the undertaking, but it cannot defeat the final consummation. It may be doubted whether the bridge can be rebuilt this fall, but in any event the road will be completed from both directions to the river. In case the rail road bridge cannot be restored this fall the county bridge which crosses the stream at the same place can be used to pass the iron and other material over, and then with the aid of another locomotive which has already been obtained, and which will be placed on the road beyond the Clackamas river the twenty miles may be completed with in the allotted time. It is very unfortunate that so considerable a part of the work has been delayed until so late in the season. This delay is understood to have been quite unnecessary and wholly contrary to Mr Holladay's intentions. The person who was in charge of the undertaking, failed to push it during the summer with the energy which should have been brought to bear upon it. As a consequence this first section of the road is costing a much larger sum of money than would otherwise have been required to build it. Work done in such weather as we have had for the last three weeks must necessarily cost almost twice as much as if done in a better season. But it will all come out right yet, and next year the construction of the road will be continued under better auspices.

The Labor Party in Politics

In the elections of this year the labor party, so-called, made an effort to accomplish its aims by separate political action, and its failure is quite analogous to that of the movement for strict prohibitory legislation. Neither of these movements developed much strength at the polls, and in fact amounted to nothing only in so far as they were instrumental in withholding votes from one or the other of the great political parties. Neither of them has or can have power enough to work outside of the established party organizations, and in opposition to them. As for the "labor party" as now organized,—if it can be said to have an organization,—it has shown itself, says a leading Eastern journal, to be by no means formidable—not even formidable enough to hold a "balance of power." While its capacity was unknown—that is to say, while it remained combined with the regular parties, leavening them somewhat by its influence, and exerting control over [illegible] as it is the prerogative of all such movements to do—it was a power to be courted and feared. It could sway [illegible] meetings, and could act directly for the support of both the great political parties. But when it abandoned this vantage-ground and sought to accomplish its ends without the aid of these organizations, its inherent weakness became apparent. Henceforth, the only question will be for the other parties whether they will continue to ignore the vote as developed. The late political debut of the "labor party" was the result of the counsels of a few leaders at the Conventions of the workingmen, leaders who imposed themselves on the labor societies and in the sacred name of labor reform undertook to use the organization for selfish purposes. We have such political shysters in Oregon. They occasionally show themselves, and are always plying the arts of the designing demagogue.

Naturalization

According to Washington letters, leading members of Congress express a purpose to press at the coming session some important amendments to the naturalization laws. By the changes which it is proposed to make no man's rights will be interfered with, and no obstacles placed in the way of any man achieving all the privileges of citizenship. But the endeavor will be made to confine the power of naturalization to the United States Courts, where it properly belongs, and where it can be exercised without fear of abuse, and further, it will be sought to permit the final papers of citizenship to be perfected at the end of four years, but the right of franchise not to be exercised until one year after the taking out of papers. In this way the term of probation will not be prolonged, and yet all inducement for fraud will be removed.

In General

Maryland is now the most absolutely Democratic State of the thirty-seven. Every member of the Legislature and every State and county officer was elected by that party. Next year, however, as the New York Herald observes, with the infusion of some thirty thousand colored voters under the Fifteenth Amendment, the tables will probably be turned.

The Salem Press is promised some documents (probably by Mr. Nesmith) which it proposes to publish for the benefit of Garfield's constituents in Washington Territory. "If they are printed in the Press the chances are ten to one that nobody in Washington Territory will ever see them. It would be like sending the documents to the tomb of the Capulets."

New York papers of the 7th inst state that the report that Secretary Boutwell has in contemplation a plan to resume specie payments on the 1st January is pure invention. It is scarcely necessary to contradict so absurd a report. The Secretary, when his attention was called to it said that such a step was not only impracticable but impossible; that he never talked of the resumption of specie payment to any one. He had enough to occupy his attention to see that the revenue is collected—that the interest on the debt is promptly and regularly paid and that the finances of the Government are kept in a healthy condition. The invention in question he characterized as foolish, absurd and sensationally manufactured out of whole cloth. He further said it would require some legislation on the part of Congress to extend his power to withdraw bonds over a certain amount, and if even it were possible to come back to specie payment it could not be done in the time stated.

[DISPATCHES TO THE OREGONIAN.]

EASTERN DATES TO NOVEMBER 23

Fenian Matters

NEW YORK, Nov 22.—At a meeting of Fenian leaders yesterday at their headquarters, a proposition to aid the Winnipeg insurgents was discussed with much animation. One member declared that as the insurrection was against the Canadian Confederation and not against Great Britain, interference in the part of Ireland's enemies of the Minister country would probably be unwelcome. The Red River half breeds. A member agreed that the soldiers of the winter in the Hudson Bay region would prevent for some months at least the intended military operations. At the speaker created an unpleasant impression by drawing a contrast between the condition of the oppressed Irish and that of the oppressed half breeds unfavorable to the former. After a brief but lively discussion further discussion of the subject was deferred till a future occasion.

New Orleans Dispatch

NEW ORLEANS, Nov 22.—An unsuccessful attempt was made to bond $131,000 worth of sugar seized here for alleged violation of the revenue law. The claimants of the sugar say the cases cannot be disposed of in five years, as they intend to exhaust every legal remedy.

An ex Deputy Collector from the interior of Texas named Boone has been arrested here charged with defrauding the Government out of $10,000.

From Cuba.

NEW YORK, Nov 22.—President Cespedes forwarded to the Cuban Junta a casket of jewels valued at $200,000 in gold, which he desires to have sold for the benefit of the Patriot army. Among the articles is a cluster pin of about 20 diamonds and several rings of rare design and workmanship and a number of watches, chains and unset stones were among the collection. Donna Cespedes contributed four bracelets, one of which is worth $6,000 and is a most beautiful work of jeweler's art. Several patriots of Cuba have contributed valuable ornaments and several soldiers in the field have offered their watches and seal rings to be converted into cash in aid of the cause. The money value of these patriotic offers is still short of $51,000.

Financial Matters.

NEW YORK, Nov 22.—The Tribune says if Congress does not see fit to resume specie payment it hopes the Supreme Court will.

The Times thinks the financial question can be solved by the adoption of a free banking system with the national circulation enlarged to four hundred million dollars.

Miscellaneous.

NEW YORK, Nov 22.—Andrew Moran, of South Carolina, said to be a wealthy Southerner, has been arrested and imprisoned on a charge of applying to Dr. Lozier to perform an abortion upon Miss Fuller. Moran was stopping at St. Denis Hotel with his wife and family. Mrs Lozier is President of the Working Women's Society and is said to have refused a large bribe to withdraw the prosecution.

CHICAGO, Nov. 22.—The propeller Bella was burned off Port Washington Saturday evening. The captain and wheelsman were drowned, and the balance of the crew rescued by a schooner, after severe suffering and clinging to a boat bottom upwards in the water.

Washington specials say there is good reason to believe that the Government has re-opened correspondence with Great Britain on the Alabama claims, but nothing is known as to the progress made in the matter.

The twenty-five Spanish boats have all been brought to New York, but are detained by order of the President, Peru being the complainant, but Peru has not yet justified the suspicion that they were intended against her.

OMAHA, Nov 22.—A dispatch says it is stated on good authority that Ogden has been decided upon as the junction of the Union and Central Pacific railroads.

NEW YORK, Nov 22.—West India advices by mail state that the cholera, yellow fever and small pox are raging fearfully at Santiago De Cuba. Three hundred deaths occurred in thirty days, and it was found impossible to give the dead a proper sepulture. The bodies are covered with only a few inches of earth, and in consequence, the stench from the cemetery has almost become intolerable. The Cubans in the interior profess to be confident of success, and are giving the Spanish troops much trouble. A cargo of 400 coolies, sent out by agent from Calcutta, had arrived at Demarara. The scheme meets with no favor and will prove a great loss. The Governors of Bermuda, Barbadoes and Jamaica have proposed to send convicts from these islands to Demarara to serve out their sentences, Demarara to receive the benefit of their labor, but Government declines to have the colony transformed into a penal settlement.

OUR SAN FRANCISCO DISPATCH

The schooner Nidaros, which arrived this morning from Noyo river, brings news of the loss of the schooner J J Fellows. She parted her moorings on the 18th inst and went ashore. She will probably prove a total loss. The crew were all saved.

In the United States District Court to-day, the case of the United States vs. 30,000 worth of opium is on trial. District Attorney Pixley appears for the prosecution and Messrs. Sharp and Hyland for the defence. The case is creating considerable interest.

From the Victoria Colonist of the 11th: The schooner Surprise, Capt Francis, arrived from the West Coast of the Island yesterday morning, having on board Capt David Smith of the American bark Maria J Smith, his wife and children and officers and crew. The bark was wrecked on Tuesday morning last near Bu[illegible] Sound. All hands escaped to the shore and the second officer was left in charge of the wreck. Another bark was seen [illegible] the rocks near [illegible] the wreck, [illegible] has broken over her. She is supposed to have been the Burns [illegible] and is reported by the Indians to have gone to pieces; a water logged condition. A copy of this precious document was placed in the hands of General [illegible], who was on his way down from Sitka with instructions to deliver it to the President. The next day as a counter irritant, a petition was circulated and generally signed, praying the King of the Cannibal Islands to annex the Colony to his dominions, and the Colonist suggested King Kamehameha the propriety of seizing Vancouver Island.

The San Francisco Bulletin of November 9th records the following example of Chinese ingenuity: "United States Appraiser Bridge discovered to-day one of the most ingenious methods of opium smuggling yet revealed at this port. A lot of eight bales of what appeared to be dried medicinal root received on the steamer America was found to conceal a large quantity of opium disguised by the inspissated extract being poured among the roots, where it took on a red dusty color and appearance of the latter, and seemed to be a part of a general mass, somewhat softened, and showing when broken or pulled apart, a similar fracture. The whole lot was consigned to Tuck Kee, who will lose considerable by this attempt to "plug roots" on Uncle Sam.

The Miller Insurance Policy.

Some Facts and Figures

WE, GENERAL AGENTS OF LIFE INSURANCE Companies doing business in this city, have had our attention called to some gross misstatements from the Agents of the New England Mutual Life Insurance Company in relation to the settlement of the Policy No. 13,[illegible]4, which was held by the late A C R Miller in that Company. We [illegible] and the facts as they were, and therefore give the following statement derived from official letters written by the Actuary of the N E Mutual Life Ins Company, which clearly proves that the Policy N[illegible] would have been [illegible] to date of Mr Miller's death but in any first class Company [illegible] will [illegible] payment; and that in the absence of the Massachusetts Law [illegible] with the payment of the claim at all; that (Mr Miller had not [illegible] money to his credit in the hands of the Company in the shape of dividends, which he did not draw at the times they were declared, but was the Company failed to apprise him that he had anything to his credit until January 1869 and he had not paid his premium for 1868, his family would not have been paid the amount of the policy.

Mr. Miller did not, as the public are led to believe, allow his policy to lapse.

When he found that he had a surplus in the Company which he [illegible] accumulating from dividends for several years he concluded to allow it to remain and to be applied to the [illegible] which was exhausted.

She is well equipped for the voyage with plenty of provisions and two hundred tons of fresh water. We must say that we think Mrs. Carter is [illegible] in this line of [illegible] Mr. Bates [illegible] his artistic style notwithstanding a bad cold. Mr. Carter did "Black [illegible]" [illegible] very well, [illegible] appear at all except under [illegible] Mr. P. Thayer had been cast for this part but for [illegible] reason did not appear. Mrs. Carter was called out at the close of the third act.

DEDICATION OF AN ODD FELLOWS' HALL.—The compositor by dropping out two or three words from an item the other day made us say that the Odd Fellows at Oregon City would dedicate their new Hall last Thursday. Thursday the 25th is the day appointed. We are not apprised of the programme of exercises, but we presume that they will be such as are usual on like occasions. The building is of fair size—twenty-four and a half feet by eighty—the lower story 15½ feet in the clear, to be used for business purposes; the upper story 17 feet in the clear to be used as Lodge, library and ante-rooms, etc. The finish outside and inside is neat and of [illegible] [illegible], and the building, entire is one in which the Odd Fellows as well as the citizens generally, may well feel a just pride.

SUICIDE. A MAN CUTS HIS THROAT.—A man [illegible] [illegible] upon the register was found in the rear yard of the hotel at corner of Alder and First Street, about [illegible] last evening, with his throat cut and in a dying condition. Surgical assistance was at once called, but the man was already beyond help, and expired in a few minutes. No one [illegible] is known anything of the man further than that he is a recent comer. He was apparently about 35 years of age, respectably dressed, and did not have the appearance of being a dissipated man. The suicide was committed with a razor found in his hand. The act is doubtless attributable to temporary insanity.

Shocking Child Murder.

A FATHER ... STABS HIMSELF.

Sacramento papers of the ... inst. give the following:

One of the most appalling occurrences that it has ever fallen to our lot, as journalists, to chronicle took place in the environs of this city last evening. A child of six or seven months old was brutally murdered by its father, who next tried to take his own life. To give our readers an intelligible idea of the matter we must go back to the commencement of the domestic difficulties which culminated in the terrible scene enacted last evening.

A few years ago, an elderly man named Mitchell and his wife, resided at Austin, Nevada. For some reason unknown to anybody in this community they separated, and Mitchell left for distant parts. Sometime after the wife learned that a person bearing his name and answering his description had been found dead in one of the settlements in that region. She accordingly married a man named Johnston—the subject of this article. They lived together until the child was born and then about which time the former husband appeared upon the scene. The old lover returned to the wife, and with her three children, two by Mitchell, and one by Johnston—she left the latter and went to live with the former with whom she subsequently removed to this city. Johnston, it appears, has been living a part of the time at Austin, and more recently at Nevada City, from which place he came to this city a couple of days since.

Last evening Johnston went to the house of Mitchell, which is on Twenty first street, near I, and asked to see his child, remarking that he was going away to Scotland and wished to kiss the child good bye. The mother handed the infant to him when, horrible to relate, instead of caressing it, he held it by one arm while he drew a sharp dirk knife and actually ripped open its little stomach the entire length! The poor infant was completely disemboweled, but lived some minutes afterwards, dying in the arms of its mother. After this atrocious act, the demon rushed at Mitchell, who warded off the blow aimed with the knife, and grabbed a hatchet when Johnston rushed out through the back door. As he left he plunged the dagger twice into his left side, one wound being above and the other below the heart. There were a couple of men about the place, who gave instant chase, and at the corner of Sixteenth street overtook the fugitive, who seems to have made no further attempt at suicide after leaving the house. With difficulty he was captured and taken down J street, Chief Martz and officer Tryon meeting the party between Fourth and Fifth streets, and taking charge of the prisoner, who by this time was very weak from loss of blood. He was assisted to Dr Simmons' office, where his wounds were dressed. While the doctor was probing the wounds Johnston appeared to be in great pain, and frequently prayed that he might die, saying that his wife had brought disgrace and ruin upon him. After a while he was assisted into a hack and taken to the hospital. He stated to those around him, that at the time he killed the child and stabbed himself, he also took a heavy dose of muriatic acid, as though to make his work doubly sure. His wounds were very severe, though he seemed to suffer little or no inconvenience from the acid he had taken.

THE RAILROAD IRON continues to arrive by hundreds of tons. The Webfoot having a locomotive on board is ... way to our city and everything to ... the building of the great Railroad is progressing as ... those Nonpareil Beaver Suits and those extra Chinchilla Roundabouts are selling at ROBINSON & ... whose Stock of CLOTHING and GENTS FURNISHING GOODS is the handsomest ever imported ... and their principle of selling with SMALL PROFITS proves a benefit to the public as well as to themselves. Their Stock of DRY GOODS is positively offered at COST.

The subjoined correspondence sufficiently explains itself:

PORTLAND, Oregon, Nov 15, 1869.

Messrs EVERSON & HAINES, General Agents New England Mutual Life Insurance Company, Boston

Gentlemen —On my own behalf and in the name of my orphan children, I beg to thank you, and through you the New England Mutual Life Insurance Company of Boston, for its munificence in paying me my terminated policy on the life of my husband. On the 21st January 1869, misfortune compelled me to forego the payment of the last premium—which non payment in any other company would have lost me my policy—but I am now overjoyed with the receipt of the amount of the policy (less the amount of the unpaid premium only), thanks to the equity of the Massachusetts Lapse Laws that must bless many widows and their children. I recommend the New England Mutual to all who would provide against possible misfortune. Sincerely thank you again, gentlemen, for the payment and also for your generous and gentlemanly assistance in the matter.

Respectfully, BETSEY MILLER.

PORTLAND, OREGON, Nov 15, 1869.

Messrs. EVERSON & HAINES, General Agents of the New England Mutual Life Insurance Company of Boston:

Gentlemen —Having taken a lively interest in the affairs of the large and destitute family left by an old resident of this city who died Aug 2, 1869, and who was insured in the New England Mutual Life Insurance Company, we take pleasure in making the following statement for the information of the public:

A. E. C. Miller was insured by ordinary Life Policy No 13,054, bearing date January 21, 1863. He paid annual payments to January 21, 1868, inclusive. Since then nothing has been paid. He died August 2, 1869, over eighteen months after last payment of premium, yet your company working under the Equitable Lapse Laws of Massachusetts, pays the widow and orphans the whole policy, deducting only the premium due, while to all other companies doing business here, about which we know anything, the policy would long since have been forfeited.

By the New England Mutual the widow has been paid $4,050 50. This we consider munificent, more especially when we take into consideration that the family would not have received a cent from any other company doing business on this coast. This in our estimation is enough to recommend this company above all others. This is Equity; this is Mutuality. We, therefore, commend this company to the public, as the only company that has no forfeitures.

We herewith inclose you the acknowledgments of the widow. Respectfully yours, etc.

Gentlemen —Your favor of yesterday, including acknowledgments of Mrs Miller, is at hand.

Please accept our thanks for the voluntary justice you have done the company we represent.

Yours Very Truly,
EVERSON & HAINES.

A New York Gambling House

HOW COUNTRY MERCHANTS ARE TAKEN IN

[From the New York Sun, Nov. 2.]

The Twenty-sixth street gambling house has organized a campaign for the winter on an original and comprehensive system, after the Baden Baden school. The house is but a few doors west of Broadway, and not far from the aristocratic St. James Hotel. It is a five-story brown-stone front, and is occupied by a score of the card fraternity. Women, elegantly dressed, flutter in and out its doors. During the early evening the flutter of silks and laces and the shimmer of jewels grow most brilliant. These women are what are termed by gamblers elegant cappers. They inveigle many wealthy victims into this gambling den.

One-half the number of men at this house are young and handsome men dressed in the richest of clothes. They pretend to represent scions of Fifth avenue and other aristocratic neighborhoods. These young men have engaged day board for the winter in up-town fashionable boarding houses—one in each. The oldest of the crew are men who have traveled extensively. Five of them have been runners for New York, Philadelphia, Boston, and Cincinnati wholesale houses. They have a more extended circle of acquaintances than any other class of men on the continent. They know thousands of country merchants who visit New York to purchase goods, and the piles of each. These have day board at the hotels, and, like their companions, are agents of this gambling house.

A square game of faro, keno, roulette, monte, or rouge et noir is not played at this house. Gamblers not interested in the game are not allowed there. The association is a combination gambling ring. Their runners obtain access to all circles of society. How they effect this it is not necessary to explain; but they manage it to perfection. They are at all the grand receptions, and their lady companions are from among the families of the millionaires. If the young lady has a brother who commands ready money, she is a favorite with one of these young men. Their system for making acquaintances is so perfect that they become the best known men in the city. Some of them frequent the Manhattan Club. They lounge in the parlors of their respective boarding houses after dinner, and mingle with the boarders. They are asked out with rich men, and ask rich men out with them. Then, as if by accident, as they converse on New York life, gambling hells are spoken of. Just a look into some of the most elegant ones afore night is suggested and agreed upon. They go into the Twenty-sixth street house, of course. The stranger is not asked to play. He sees half a dozen fine-appearing men at the table toying with ivory chips. Others occupy magnificent settees and chairs. Luxury surrounds the apartments, and instead of a "hell," as the new visitor has imagined, he finds an abode of elegance. He is offered a seat near the table. He looks on and sees men accumulating stank after stack of white, blue, red, and black chips, and changing them in for money. He is irresistibly drawn to the table. If he plays, he loses as long as he lays his money down. Those who have been playing and winning are members of the fraternity. The money they win is put back again, and so the game runs.

Those who operate with country merchants accompany them when they purchase goods, win their favor, and are taken with them to their billiard and gambling halls. Not an honest card is [illegible]. A number of the associates of this house may be seen on the corners of Twenty-sixth street and Broadway during any afternoon. They are the dealers and older cappers. These wear diamonds and a profusion of jewelry. They occupy seats near the windows at the Hoffman and St. James, and crowd respectable people off the walks. The young men who intrude snake-like into higher society are never seen there or in company with gamblers, but at Central Park, the theaters, and first class halls, they may always be found.

THE [illegible] OF A WOMAN AND AN OURANG-OUTANG.

[From the [illegible].]

The [illegible] of moles covered with fine downy hair is by no means uncommon; but the most [illegible] ordinary example of this deformity we have ever seen was brought to our office a few days since by two Spanish gentlemen. The subject is a dark complexioned, rather short Mexican-Indian woman of about 22 years of age, and who, from the singular nature of her deformity, and the history that attaches to her mother, has received the name of Maria the Ourang-outang. It is stated that the mother of this woman belonged to the Indian tribe called the Quiche, inhabiting the province of Soconusco, on the Pacific coast of Mexico. At the age of 25 she became a servant to a Spanish family, and ten years after disappeared in the mountains, where she remained several years. A Spanish vaquero, so goes the tale, traveling in that part of the country, met the Indian with a child, the subject of this notice, then five years of age, and marking her peculiarity, purchased her. Both the mother and child were in a state of nudity, and the mother informed the gentleman that it was the offspring of an ourang-outang. The Spaniard took the child home, and reared it to the age of fifteen, when she made her escape, and sought to gain her living by exhibiting herself. She was recaptured, and brought over to this country by the Spaniard who first endeavored to reclaim her. The girl when stripped, is well proportioned, and presents precisely the appearance of having on a pair of bathing trousers, or calecons, made of the skin of some animal the hairy surface extends to about the level of the umbilicus in front, and the sixth dorsal vertebra behind, covers the buttocks, is replaced in front by the ordinary hair of the pubes, and extends about half way down both thighs. The surface of the skin of the body generally is smooth and soft, but that of the hairy surface is blackish, coarse, and furrowed, [illegible] the observer somewhat of the skin of the back of a pig the hair is short, black and slightly curled. The margins of the hairy surface are sharply defined. Its sensibility is stated to be as acute as that of other parts of the body. The patient, who seemed to feel her condition acutely, has an agreeable expression of face, with full dark eye, and the ordinary Mexican type of countenance. The supposition that she owes her parentage on one side to an ourang-outang, we utterly deride; and although she has been brought over to this country for the purpose of exhibition, we trust that so demoralizing a procedure will be prevented; yet it might be expedient to obtain a model of her for the Pathological Museum of the College of Surgeons.

A California Senator Becoming Famous.

In the following brief article the Nation "takes off" Senator Casserly and states some things, which, if read and digested by our "Knights of the Horny Hand," will do them good:

"Senator Casserly, of California, promises to be before long a very remarkable man. Addressing a Democratic club in San Francisco the other day, he furiously denounced "the cry of cheap labor," and asked indignantly, 'What built up California? Was it cheap labor? No. Our State became populated and prosperous because labor was better paid here than in any other part of the world.' As the price of labor depends partly on the number of laborers and partly on the cost of living, that country must on the Casserly theory, be most happy and prosperous in which there are fewest men to do its work, and least for them to eat and drink. In a community, for instance, in which there were a thousand persons to be provided for, and only five laborers to do it, these five would command any wages they pleased, and if Mr. Casserly were there he would indignantly oppose all attempts to add to their number. Never theless, from one point of view he is right. This is the way in which a workingman ought to talk who wants to have the price of his particular commodity, that is, his labor, artificially kept up. He ought to say that the fewer laborers there are, and the less work they do, the better for the State, that those who clamor for more hands to dig, and spin, and carry, are designing men, who secretly approve of the slave trade, and would probably, if they got a chance, steal the widow's silver spoons; that the love of multiplying laborers is of monarchical origin, and justly exposed to the suspicions of a free people; and that the greatest enemy of his kind is he who makes two blades of grass grow where only one grew before, and sets a machine to do as much mowing in an hour as a man could do in a day.

A Midnight Apparition

SINGULAR PROCEEDINGS OF A SICK MAN

[From the Omaha Republican, Oct. 15.]

Messrs Root and Fitch are attaches of the Union Pacific headquarters. They occupy rooms at the lower end of Ninth street. On Wednesday night, near the hour when ghosts are supposed to be abroad, Mr. Root was suddenly awakened by strange and violent noises in his sleeping apartment. Peering about the moon-lit room, he espied a tall, gaunt figure, robed in white, at the foot of his couch.

Exhausted nature appears to have taken possession of Mr. Fitch, for he did not awake at the first alarm, nor until he had been soundly kicked and well shaken by his room-mate. Mr. Root reached boldly out for his revolver, then suddenly remembered that he had none. It occurred to his mind, however, that an old carbine stood silent and alone like his spirit (?) visitor in one corner of the room. Springing from his bed he seized the deadly weapon, with the firm intention of making a wide and gaping wound directly through the shadow or substance which had thus intruded into the privacy of his chamber.

The instrument of death sounded a click-click, and was brought to the shoulder when a light dashed out and illuminated the apartment. This sensible move was accomplished by Mr. Fitch. As the rays of the lamp dispelled the midnight glow, there in bold relief, but partially covered with his robe de nuit, his long bony arms swinging wildly back and forth, his hair disheveled, his sunken eyes, wild and staring, his bearded face so pale and ghastly that one would think him just risen from the dead, stood a Scandinavian immigrant.

The gun dropped from the shoulder of Mr. Root and struck the floor with a thud which wakened the ghostly being from the lethargic and yet idiotic stupor which seemed to hang over him, but while Fitch stood by and sardonically laughed at the terrible spectacle, Root, the brave and bluff, found voice to inquire, "Who in h—l are you?"

The almost spirit head opened wide its shrunken jaws, raised slowly up the skeleton hand, fixed the sunken eyes, and spake as if his voice came from the depth of some dark dungeon underneath the earth, but in a foreign tongue.

Understanding not a word, but still courteous and polite, Mr. Root set forth a chair and invited the stranger to a seat, pulled on his pants, and started for a neighbor. The two returned, but could still learn nothing of the funny looking guest. Once more the brave Root sailed forth, but soon returned with a second resident of the vicinity—a man who spake the language of the faderland.

The second neighbor went out into the night for a half mile walk to the Scandinavian Hotel, near the depot, where he learned that a sick man had been stopping for several days. Examination of his room revealed the fact of his absence.

Upon returning to the apartment of Messrs. Root and Fish, these gentlemen were discovered trying to get a knowledge of a foreign tongue from the party who afterwards proved to be the missing "man without a mind." He is now now under the doctor's care, and in a fair way of recovery.

A GREAT SALT MINE.—The San Jose (Cal.) Patriot thus describes the Humboldt salt mine, about eighty miles northwest of Austin and not far from the railroad line:

The surface of this salt plain looks exactly like that of a lake frozen over. The salt is hard and smooth as ice. Were it not for fine particles which are condensed from vapors arising from beneath, and which cover the crystaline salt to the depth of perhaps one-eight of an inch, it would make an excellent skating rink at all times of the year, except during the very infrequent occasions when cover with water. This magnificent expanse of crystalized salt is sixteen twenty miles in length and twelve in width, without a break or flaw, or one particle of soil for the greater portion of that extent. The stratum of solid salt, we had almost said ice which it continually suggests to our mind, is about six or seven inches thick, under which comes a layer of sticky singular looking mud about two feet thick, and under this again another stratum of solid salt as hard as quartz and transparent as glass, of unknown thickness to us. When we visited the mine about four years ago, we found a hole which had been sunk about six feet into its lower layer of salt, near the edge of the deposit, without going through it. In summer this salt plain, glittering and scintillating in the light of an almost tropical sun, presents a most brilliant appearance. The frosty covering of the solid salt is as white as driven snow, while that portion when exposed reflects dazzling prismatic colors. Of course there is salt enough in this immense deposit to supply the world for untold ages. It is remarkably pure, being 95 per cent salt and 5 per cent soda, purer than that we use for our tables.

One cold winter night some twenty-five years ago, a couple appeared under the window of a squire in Washington county, New York, and called for him. The squire got out of bed and asked what they wanted. "Want to get married." "Married and be darned," said the squire, and shut the window. It was a short ceremony, but they considered it sufficient, and are now living together as man and wife.

NEW PATENT SHAFT COUPLING!

W. E. COOPER

HAS PURCHASED THE RIGHT FOR THIS County of the above Patent, and will hereafter use it in the construction of all the Vehicles manufactured at his extensive

Carriage Factory,

Corner of Second and Morrison Streets.

He respectfully refers to the following

CARD.

Having examined the New Patent Shaft Coupling, invented by B. B. Hoagland, we feel pleasure in informing the public that in our opinion it is the safest and best method of connecting shafts or tongues to all vehicles that has ever been used.
It fastens without bolt or screw, and is therefore, easily and speedily separated. It rests on Gutta Percha so as to be entirely free from the rattling sound which so often disturbs restless horses. It is easily changed so that the shafts or tongue may be detached in an instant, and is convenient, safe and secure.
It is easy to change to this style of coupling any buggy or other vehicle now in use, and with small expense. We have come to the conclusion to use this new invention ourselves and recommend its use in all cases. We consider it far superior to the Brewster Patent, heretofore considered the best in use.
